Vol. 37, No. 30

Editor: Paul Burnham

Seventeen members of Wilton=s finest service organization (Brown, Boucher, Burnham (collecting), Castaldi, Dephtereos, Edwards, Freedman (presiding), Goldman, Johnson, Kent, Lavin, Mais, Mills, Nigro, Russo, Tai-Lauria, White) gathered on a fine mid-day in February, our first meeting of Lent, 2018.

We have a new member application – Forrest Close, classification Wealth Management. Let Christene know if you have any questions. The Board endorses his candidacy. Forrest is sponsored by Christene and Aryslada, our former assistant district governor from Stamford and an early induction is to be hoped for.

Christene reported that the Board has approved the transfer of the management of our Adopt-a-Spot without a change in signage. Well done!

Our new spring fundraiser is a bingo night at Trackside on April 27. Everyone should plan to attend.

On March 13 at the Brubeck Room we will be hosting, once again, the annual awards ceremony for the Wilton Police Department.

Pat has smoke detectors for sale.

Carol drew the Jack of Hearts in the 50-50. The pot creeps ever upward.

Our speaker today was Alexis Boccanfuso, a Wilton resident, who owns and operates Clutterphobe. She does not deal with hoarders, although that may be what her business' name would make you think, rather she is a professional organizer. Paper, finances, personal scheduling, what-have-you. She is an accountant by training and this is her third career. She wants her clients to become organized and hopes to give them the tools to stay organized. Clients have included a family which needed someone to help them figure out how to manage the schedules of six individuals in their newly blended family, young adults needing to learn how to cope in the real world, families with no clue as to how to organize their finances, an adult child needing to figure out best procedures for handling an aged parent's medical claims, a business that needed to know how things got done, and what things were being done, and what was being done that really didn't need to be done, and someone who needed to know how to get the Drummer out timely. Alexis strongly advocates putting the time into developing a Procedures Manual for any business or significant personal endeavor. She's available for consultation in 2-3 hour shifts – any shorter and it's a waste of time because neither she nor the client will be able to do more than scratch the surface – any longer and it's a waste as almost no one can stay focused on something mildly unpleasant and seemingly banal for any longer. See you Friday.
